Benefice News – Sunday 8th November 2026

Remembering is an important part of what it means to be human; our memories shape who we are, where we have come from and the values we hold dear. So, on Remembrance Sunday, we have the privilege of pausing to remember those who have given their lives for others; those who have suffered, and those whose lives have been changed by conflict.
In doing so we remember to both honour those who gave so much and also to pray for a lasting peace in our world. "Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends" (John 15.13).
